Monday, February 26, 1912.

The weather is always a subject, but not much of a one, for it is discussed too much.

Somebody long ago suggested that it would be a good thing to do, if some men were kept in the ring, and say, "Colonel, here's your hat."

After the congressional committee in discovering a sugar trust, they didn't tell the people what was to be done about it, and it sugar was going higher in fact.

The people of this section who have been having a hard season, the ground has not been moist enough to make a crop will have to look to something else. The ground is wet; it is too wet, and the season for plowing is rapidly advancing.

Health, happiness and good reputation, even in the long run, prosperity and wealth are procured to be given to the man who lives uprightly and keeps his garments clean and his hands busy. Wagner.

The Bessemer Standard hasn't had its new press very long, but it looks like that it has been operating long enough for the man to learn to learn where to put his editorial page so it can be found without a blue print. Of course, he has a right to put it on the back, front, fashion, but he doesn't do that.

The Ansonia Hot Wind is advertised to sell at auction, to the highest bidder for cash. The Hot Wind is a little better paper than the Ansonia back to make a proposition in paying me. It is but little trouble to put more money into a newspaper properly than its earnings will justify, and we suspect that the Hot Wind is overvalued, trying to give Ansonia a city paper with a country town income.

HE STARTED IT.

Says old Ed Johnson: "The Lord never intended for everybody to be rich. I found this out some forty years ago," and the Florida Democratic comes along and says: "And that's the reason you haven't made more money."

Well, old Ed started it, and might have known he was pulling the gap down somewhere.

"I am interested in the Panama Canal because I started it. If I had followed traditional conservative methods, I would have submitted a dignified paper of probably two hundred pages in Congress and the debate on it would have been going on yet. But I took the Canal Zone and let Congress debate, and while the debate goes on, the canal does also." The Macmillan News quotes that memorable utterance of Theodore Roosevelt, and comments thereon as follows: "And likewise the moral laws that govern our public men and nations are also going on, whenever the Panama Canal starts up to confront the Congress, that form audacious and shake its glory back at him, and he is stopped from denying that he did it."

THE BOLL WEEVIL.

In that section of the country where the boll weevil is doing business, the farmers were forced to grow something else on their hands. They didn't want to give up the practice of growing cotton for they had done that for a money crop for years. Finding that the boll weevil took that from them, they had no choice in the matter. It was plant something else or starve.

In the boll weevil sections the history is that the farmers had to lose at least two crops before they would try for something else. That puts a community behind the times, financially speaking.

It is the worst thing to do, to have the boll weevil before he comes, and not after he gets here. If our farmers can go ahead and plant money by raising hogs, or growing peas, or something else, they might practice the new. It is but a question of a year or two when the boll weevil has to do something else.

You do not very much like to work, and still you do not work much, nearly because it does not seem to you that you could get much for it. This habit of excessive wastefulness is the whole difficulty; it is very important to you, and still, unimportant to your children, that you should break the habit. It is more important to them because they have longer to live and can keep out of an idle habit before they are in it, rather than they can get out after they get in. Lincoln.

The good roads and the bad ones, are all needing attention. Some of the good ones, have without people, whose passing is bad. Some people have refused to allow a new road to be started up, and they cannot do much work. What they should do now, is to go over the roads, and patch up the gulches, and build bridges back over places where they have washed away. The rains will let up after a while, and the patching work can be done. Some of the bridges have been gone, and roads washed in, for a month or two, and the people are anxious for something to be done for them.

THE DEATH RATE IN THE CANAL ZONE.

So many records have been broken in the canal zone, since Uncle Sam undertook to dig the big ditch, that we have become used to the sensation, but not longer expect anything but remarkable things. Whether moving dirt, building dams, draining swamps, or preventing disease, the Canal Commission seems to have no thought in view but to make each day's work greater than that of the day before. So we arise merely to put on record that the report of the Department of Sanitation for November last received, shows that during that month, among 11,906 white men, women and children from the United States living in the Zone, there were two deaths from disease, one from malaria and one from cancer; there was only one premature birth. Including the latter, this is equal to an annual death rate of 2.02 per thousand. Would any of our most advanced cities care to compete for first honors as a health resort, with this estate-like "pastoral vale of the tropics"? Most of our cities, says the Journal of the American Medical Association, consider themselves lucky if they can get their death rate below 15 per thousand, and.

PROVERBS.

Polish woman is eloquent. She is simple and knoweth nothing. For she lieth at the door of her house on a seat in the high places of the city, to call passengers who go right on their ways. Whose is simple but her own little; and as for him that wateheth understanding, she saith to him, Sholom waters are sweet, and bread eaten in secret is pleasant.

But he knoweth not that the dead are there; and that her guests are in the depths of hell.
A wise son maketh a glad father, but a foolish son is the heaviness of his mother.
Treasures of wickedness profit nothing.
He becometh poor that draveheth with a slack hand.
Blessings are upon the head of the just, but violence covereth the mouth of the wicked.
The memory of the just is blessed, but the name of the wicked shall rot.

Wise men lay up knowledge, but the mouth of the foolish is near destruction.

He that biteth his hand with lying lips, and he that uttereth slander, is a fool.

The lips of the righteous feed many, but fools die for want of wisdom.

The blessings of the Lord, is maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it.

The fear of the Lord prolongeth days; but the years of the wicked shall be shortened.

A false balance is abomination to the Lord, but a just weight is his delight.

A THAVBLESS JOB.

Cable bills were paid last week on a story that Earl Spencer had resigned his job as lord chamberlain of Great Britain, whatever that is. Perhaps it wasn't worth the cable bills for its news value, but one learns of the despatch part of the duties of the lord chamberlain, and therefore can't blame him for resigning. That part was the censorship of plays, in which it is related superfluously, he had failed to give satisfaction. So, being a peace-loving person, he resigned and retired to his country estate to enjoy a much needed rest.

Of course, he failed to give satisfaction. So did his predecessor, if he had one, and so will his successor. If there be a man in England with nerve enough to tackle the censorship thing, Satisfaction isn't for some sinners, including, and led by the censorship of plays. Even the man who merely criticizes them in a public manner, without an attempt at censorship, backing that power, is sure to be hated and abused a good deal. And as long as people see the same thing differently, it will be so.

Plays have been produced in America for some sinners, including, and led by the censorship of plays. Even the man who merely criticizes them in a public manner, without an attempt at censorship, backing that power, is sure to be hated and abused a good deal. And as long as people see the same thing differently, it will be so.

REFERENDUM AND RECALL STUFF.

It is doubtful if any other three presidential years in American history have seen more substantial changes in the attitude of the people toward things fundamental than the past three years have shown. These changes have appeared in the state governments of some of the commonwealths of New England and the Pacific coast region, in the rich agricultural jurisdictions of the Rockies and in the industrial and agricultural states of the Mississippi valley. Whatever is moving the people is, of course, but it continuation of the impulse that carried them so far during the past three years they have used the experience that the earlier years of the contest under President Roosevelt gave them, and they have had the accumulated momentum of those years. The important thing, however, is that there has been no let up in the struggle begun ten years ago. The wave of the reform has not ebbed.

Moreover, the political purpose remains stronger than the economic motive. The movement is institutional at base. It began with the primary, which was designed to boost the alliances between business and politics, and now that the primary is operating in three-fourths of the states, it is used as a lever for giving the individual more direct control of the other institutions of government.

To this end the people are creating new institutions, nothing but a reform from the United States Supreme Court can stop the spread of that institution called the initiative and referendum. It is now in force in two hundred and nine cities in twenty-five states and is a part of the fundamental law for state purposes in eleven commonwealths. These eleven are Maine, Missouri, South Dakota, Arkansas, Oklahoma, California, Colorado, Arizona, Montana, Nevada and Oregon. The legislatures that adjourned this spring submitted it to the people of eight other states—Washington, Idaho, Wyoming, North Dakota, Nebraska, Florida, Wisconsin and Indiana—where it is incorporated in the new constitutions. In Ohio it was granted to all cities. The urban population forms a major part of the pople of that state; and, moreover, a working majority of the delegates to the constitutional convention are pledged publicly in writing to put the initiative and referendum in the new Ohio constitution. In three other states the initiative and referendum passed both houses of the legislature—Kansas, Massachusetts and Illinois—but lacked a constitutional majority in one house. In Minnesota and Michigan it passed one house of the legislature by the required majority and lacked but a few votes in the other house.

Here are, all told, twenty-five American states where the fundamental relation of the people to the state government is being changed. If, during the next decade, direct legislation gains as rapidly as it has gained since 1904, three-fourths of the American states will be made over. The initiative and referendum today are exactly where the primary was in 1906. The recall has been adopted by the people of Oregon, California and Arizona. It has been submitted to the people for a vote in 1912 as a constitutional amendment in Nebraska, Indiana, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Washington, and by initiative it will go before the people of Colorado. It is a live political issue, for in the cities also it is spreading. It will be found in about one-third of the cities that have adopted the initiative and referendum as parts of their charters.—William Allen White, in Saturday Evening Post.

EAGLETTES.

You had probably noticed that hard times seem to be in wait for the man who is looking for them.

Looking sour for pay is bad enough, but some men practice it when they expect to get nothing for it.

So many folks are ready to promise more than they can do, when they get the wrist bands on.

Don't keep yelling wolf. Remember the boy; he finally ran up with one.

The man who is overworked already is usually the one to do the important thing you have to do.

When they are piling flowers over the casket, many of us get right down to it trying to think of some of the good deeds the deceased performed while among us.

Nearly every country town in the south does a good deal of talking about building a cotton mill, to have a weekly pay roll.

So few of us have distinguished relatives to visit us without introducing them around.

A candidate said the other day that he was afraid he wasn't doing so well, as no one had accused him of stealing a gray horse, butter and all.

Ringed speeches are not remembered as long as the few words you tell the man, while holding to his coat collar, and using a low tone of voice.

The idle man is the dissatisfied man.

When a fellow blows in from some city's roads place, and begins to make fun of your town, he has probably been turned down when he tried to work his graft on some one.

Probably it is a good thing that you can't swallow a tablet at the drug store the next morning and square the account with nature.

The leading public is familiar with all the leading brands of merchandise, seeing them advertised in all the periodicals.

Whenever you can't see what in the world a man means by doing a certain thing, first find out why he is doing it. See the other side to it.

It is interesting to watch some young ladies on a down town parade, to see how they go into the "high," and as they get away from the crowd change into the "intermediate," and by the time they arrive at home, "low" is reached, and the engine is choked down by the time mother wants assistance about preparing supper.

FAMOUS FARM SAUCES

OLD RECIPES HANDED DOWN THROUGH GENERATIONS.

Many Have Been Patented and Acquired World Wide Reputations Such as Originators Never Dreamed of—Tomato Mustard

Country farmhouses years ago possessed a good many other treasures hidden their little chests and their carved oak presses, although most of these treasures seem to have vanished now.

In the days before every village market town had its city products and illustrious peddlers were the chief salesmen they thought in fact a great deal of their own old recipes for homemade sauces. They were made according to directions which were handed down through generations and formed the special pride of many a busy housekeeper. As a matter of fact, many of the old recipes have become patented and the originator has acquired a world wide reputation such as the originators would never have foretold for it.

Among the forgotten recipes is one for tomato mustard, which is worthy of the consideration of those whose stock of tomatoes is greater than can be used for cooking, and so the

To two pounds of tomatoes three peppers should be added when minced and these must be placed in a large preserving pan with a tablespoon of oil, half pound black pepper, an ounce of powdered ginger, a quart of vinegar, and a half cup of salt and the ground rind of a lemon. These ingredients should be well mixed together and boiled for an hour in an iron and a half. At the end of that time the contents of the pan should be allowed to cool and when cold an ounce of curry powder and an ounce of powdered mustard added with a final half cup of vinegar. This mustard mixture should be bottled and corked down tightly.

Another sauce which is equally well suited to a cold roast of boiled meat is also made of tomatoes.

To a gallon of tomatoes a full breakfast cup of minced red pepper and a large cup of salt. A onion should be added the tomatoes having been cut up very small. Half a pound of brown sugar in half a tea cup of salt or less if this is considered too much—a small teaspoon full each of powdered ginger, cloves and cinnamon can be worked in with half a teaspoonful of ground nutmeg, and rather less of powdered mace. To all these should be added a pint and a half of vinegar and the ingredients turned into a preserving pan and boiled for three hours.

Hot and Cold Tartare Sauces

Cold—In the yolk of one egg into a bowl with one teaspoon of dry mustard, one level teaspoon of salt and just a little bit of cayenne pepper. Stir with a wooden spoon until smooth then add one half cup of salad oil and three tablespoons of lemon juice or vinegar a few drops at a time stirring quickly all the time. When the sauce is thick and smooth add one tablespoon each of chopped parsley in peas and gherkins and one teaspoon of very finely chopped onions. Keep cool until wanted for use. Serve with cold fish.

Sauce Tartar (hot)—One tablespoon vinegar one teaspoon lemon juice one half teaspoon salt one tablespoon of walnut catchup or table sauce, two tablespoons butter. Mix vinegar, lemon juice, salt and catchup together and heat over hot water. Brown butter in another pan, and strain into the first mixture. Keep for several days.

Baking Powder Biscuit

Mix together three times one quart of flour two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a teaspoonful of salt. Rub in quickly and thoroughly with the tips of the fingers one tablespoonful of lard and butter mixed. Add slowly one cupful and a half of milk. Mix lightly with little handling. Turn out on the molding board roll into a sheet a half inch thick cut out with a small round cutter and lay in a greased baking pan so they will not touch. Bake in a very hot oven for about twenty minutes.

Clean Shelf Papers

The next time you are cleaning the pantry shelves fold at least three newspapers the longest way of the full sheets. Place them on the shelf with the fold in front and fit snugly. The next time you want a clean paper all the edge of a half along the fold of the outer sheet and remove the sheet. The remainder of the sheets will be left intact for future use and much time and labor will be saved to the housewife.

Chocolate Jumbles

One half pound of chocolate one pint of molasses one cup of sugar one cup of butter one teaspoon clove one teaspoon cinnamon one teaspoon allspice two teaspoons soda one cup hot water. These eggs then enough to roll without sticking.

Cider Apple Sauce

Roll down the cider use newly dried apples pared and quartered if some if low fourth their weight in sugar or use late sweet apples pared and quartered very little or no sugar. Cook slowly and be careful not to break the fruit in straining.

A White Plum Pudding

Put in a cream a half cup sugar and three quarters cup butter. Add four eggs well beaten a half spoonful salt two cups milk and a quart of flour mixed with one half cup shredded citron one half cup scalded raisins one half cup currants a tea spoonful grated nutmeg and a teaspoonful vanilla. Put before cooking into the mold set in two cups cold sprigged baking powder. Bake in steam two hours and serve with any cold sauce.

First In Grippe then bronchitis

That was the case with Mrs. W. S. Bailey (McGraw) by. My wife was taken down by a severe attack of the grippe which ran into bronchitis. She coughed as though she had consumption and could not sleep at night. The first bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound gave her so much relief that she continued using it until she was permanently cured. I am N. H. McCallum.

A Warning Against Wet Feet

Wet and chafed feet usually attract the most serious members of the nose throat and lungs and is gripped bronchitis or pneumonia my result. Watch carefully particularly the children and for the racking stub burn coughs give Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It soothes the inflamed membranes and breaks the cough quick! Fake no substitute. Although a resident of Lynn Haven at the time of his death the deceased was a native of Maine and had traveled extensively since leaving that state about fourteen years ago. When he first came to Dothan he refused to reveal any of his past history but when upon realizing that death would soon end his sufferings he then gave the attending physician at Blackshear's infirmary instructions for his burial and made other requests. He stated that on account of domestic trouble he had left his wife and son in Maine four years ago and since then he had no trace of them although he asked that his property which he claims is located in Santiago Cuba shall be left to the son. He also asked that his property which is in Lynn Haven, be left to two of his sisters, who also reside in Maine. When he realized that he would

Fine Mules And Horses

There will not be a day during the entire season when we cannot supply you with any kind of a mule or any kind of a horse. We visit the markets every few days and select such stock as are in demand in this territory. We know the needs of the buying public, and what's better, we know how to buy them so we can sell them closer than any other dealer in this territory.

In mules, anything from the pony farm mule, to the heaviest timber mules. In horses, well broke family horses, driving or riding of the best quality.

Chestnut Stuffing Peel one quart of large chestnuts and cook in boiling water until the skins loosen and rub off easily. Then put the nuts into a bowl, add salt, and cook until tender.

How to Cook Cabbage Take one half of small cabbage, peel it one hour in salt water, wash it well, and cut in small pieces. Put on to boil in plenty of boiling water.

Curtain Rods Small curtain rods that spring into the window frame, and hold them steady, are without fixtures save much trouble in putting up and taking down curtains.

Rocks One and one half cups brown sugar, three eggs beaten separately, one cup butter, one and one half pounds white chopped lard, and one half cup flour.

Wellerley Fudge Roll a quarter of a cake of chocolate, take a pound of unsweetened sugar, a cup of milk, and a cup of butter.

WAR IS COSTING ITALY MUCH

Spending Vast Sums in Cannonading at Nothing More Vulnerable Than Desert Bands.

The correspondent of the London Daily Express who is now with the Turkish forces in Tripoli says that the Turks are hoping much from the cost of the war to Italy. The war is costing Turkey nothing, but the Italians are spending vast sums in cannonading at nothing more vulnerable than desert bands.

What to Do With Babies

If the custom of checking babies at the department stores and leaving them there continues to grow it may be necessary for these establishments to hold another sides of and named babies as the express companies do of parcels left in their hands.

For Law and Order

Stricken Pugilist—All police, stop this sporting match. It is going to degenerate into a pitiful fight.

Folly

The fool is never so silly with his folly as the wise man is with his wisdom.

Music Fever.

Walter Damrosch, the eminent musician told at a dinner in New York, a story about Patti.

When the Patti fever was at its height, he said, a worthy Philadelphia couple decided to buy tickets at $5 each.

But $15 seemed a good deal of money to spend on a single evening's music. In brief, after a serious talk the worthy couple decided to devote the $15 to charity.

Woman's Age.

Women are never old as long as they retain their curiosity and their inquisitiveness. When a woman has lost her interest in gossip and scandal she is already dead.

Still to Be Heard From

Many women have attempted to avoid attention from the hearts of men, but we have never heard of one who succeeded.

One Penalty of Advancing Age

As we get older we find one of the sad things in life is the way in which the number of those who call us by our Christian name diminishes.
